When Referring to Sam . . .

Excellence Says It All

Being a man of many wonders, Sam Houston fought battles for the Texas army and became the first Governor of the State of Texas. Sam Houston, the man — the school, both were full of exciting happenings. Sam Houston, the school, met the competitive challenge of the brains with wins at the local, state, and national levels. The newly formed Whiz Quiz Team made an instant success as a rookie team going into final rounds with more experienced teams.

The school not only scored high academically but athletically as well. The football team won the district title, and the volleyballers captured second in city play. Both the girls and the guys basketball teams excelled in the playoffs .

While racking up the points, other Houstonians were adding up the tickets. The new school zone along Sam Houston Drive made students slow down to 20 mph even during lunch time.

One might have said that Sam Houston was a happening of 1985 with all the excitement and outstanding achievements. Just as Sam Houston, the man, strived for the best to make it happen, students and faculty made it happen in everything they did.

Texans Work With Each Other in Order to . . .

Accomplish Their Dreams

"D.C., D.C., D.C.," came from the crowd. They were yelling for the destruction crew, the defense of the football team, to tear up the opponent, and they did. The Texan Football Team made it to be the District 7-5A champs. Who helped them? The coaches, the students, the parents, but most of all, they helped themselves.

With the theme "After Graduation . . . It's a Jungle Out There," the seniors captured first place in the Homecoming hall decorations. Besides the sponsors of the Senior Class helping them, the seniors did the work themselves.

Performing day and night and working long hours, the drill team was rewarded for their time. Being the only drill team to be asked to perform at the World's Fair in New Orleans, the Tex-Annes showed their skills to many people. Mrs. Brenda Ingram, the sponsor, and their parents, assisted them. But, who did the hard work? The Tex-Annes themselves did.

To win, to accomplish, to try, that is what life is made of. We live to win to accomplish our dreams, and to try new things to make them work. Who do we do these things for? Ourselves. But we need help. Together we can make it happen.

Mrs. Lane, This Is True

Who can teach for 17 years without getting bored? Who can spend countless of extra hours working on the senior prom, decorations and senior magazine sales without a complaint? Who can tell a joke and never crack a smile?

The answer to all these quesions (and any about English) can be answered with one simple name: Mrs. Mary Beth Lane. She is calm, good-humored and very caring. If there is ever a crisis anywhere, one can count on her to be there. Mrs. Lane is the true backbone of the school.

Not only does she spend hours upon end working as a senior English teacher, but Mrs. Lane's dedication as a Senior Class sponsor is tremendous, considering it is only voluntary. Egads, what dedication.

For her extra hours of work, humor, and caring ways, we dedicate the 1985 Cherokee to Mrs. Mary Beth Lane. To borrow her favorite phrase . . . Mrs. Lane, this is true.

With All the Happenings in the World, It's Never . . .

A Boring Life

T&Ms, Coke, flourescent colors, big dangly earrings, Republicans, cropped pants, topsiders, and bleached jeans, were just some of the things that were "in" in our school, Texas, and around the country.

At Sam the most awesome event was the winning of District 7-5A in football and boys' basketball and the bi-district title in girls' basketball. The teachers and students in F-Hall had to bear with the hammering and riveting of the remodeling of the Journalism Department and the additional wing for the handicapped. The addition of 800 sophomores made for a crowded year, especially when trying to get through the halls between classes.

The reforms in the Texas schools made for a different year. Seniors, juniors, and sophomores found out a little more work than usual was in order with the grade "D" being eliminated.

President Ronald Reagan was re-elected and Geraldine Ferraro made history as being America's first woman nominee for Vice-President from a major party.

Prime Minister Indira Ghandi of India was tragically assassinated. A baboon's heart kept Baby Fae alive for awhile. Whoever said that life was boring didn't know that we can make things happen.

As Dreams Diminish . . .

Chaos Materializes

The first day of school held so much promise. Students had many dreams of what was going to happen this year and how organized they were going to be.

After the first day, however, everyone realized how unrealistic his dreams were, and he went back to just getting by the best way he could.

As junior Julie Gauvey said, "The first day of school was great. I just didn't want to come back for the second day."

Although the dreams of the first day vanish, the excitement doesn't. At 2:30 p.m. on Aug. 27, students rushed home to tell their parents, brothers, sisters, and anyone else who would listen about their exciting day.

As Kathy Gratke, sophomore, said, "I was so excited! I couldn't stop talking." Her twin sister, Karen, piped in, "I couldn't get a word in because Kathy wouldn't stop talking."

Is There
No End to . . .

Building?

On the first day of school, students and teachers were greeted by the sight of construction workers, as well as the sounds of hammers and drills. The workers set to the task of remodeling part of the southwest wing of the school and also building a new facility specially designed for handicapped students. Accomodations were expanded for both the Journalism and Photography Departments, adding space as well as equipment.

Although the photography room was completed late in January, the journalism room and handicapped wing were still under construction, and not expected to be ready until the next school year.

The wing designed for disabled students will allow them to learn in an environment suitable to their needs. Ramps and other equipment will help these students to become more mobile as well as capable to interact with students in other parts of the school.

A Little Howdy Is . . .

Better Than No Howdy

"Sing, sophomore!" The words were dreaded by the sophomores as they began their journey from being mere "Mickies" to full fledged Texans and also by juniors who watched their step for fear of being made to sing by seniors roaming the halls.

Although many had feared for the life of Howdy Day because of the new education bills, the day proved to be alive and well at Sam Houston as students loaded all the initiations they could into the time they had.

Student Congress members worked many hours to prepare for the long anticipated day, but in the end it all paid off. "Making the Howdy Day stuff was really time consuming, but it was all worth it because Howdy Day was a success," commented Student Congress secretary Jennifer Buster.

Howdy Day has come to mean something to everyone at Sam. To seniors, it means the chance to dish out what they have taken for so long and for juniors it is the first opportunity to initiate the underclassmen.

To sophomores, it means something different. Perhaps Dina Thomas said it best when she wrote, "I went home, and started to throw my 'Mickey' ears away, but I could not! I had to keep something to remind me of all the things a sophomore goes through. But by the time I'm a senior in '87, those little sophomores better watch out!"

Having pep rallies before school put a strain on the attendance. Most students chose an extra hour of sleep over 35 minutes of spirit filled action at the pep rallies. Although there were not as many people, the excitement was always escalating as play-off hopes became realities.

Faculty and students joined together to make pep rallies the best that they could be. While faculty paraded around the gym with "Sam is No. 1" signs, sophomores struggled to learn the traditional Sam Houston cheers.

Behind the Scenes Work Leads to . . .

Glamour of Homecoming

Long before Homecoming was ever thought of by most students, Student Congress officers were hard at work making the preparations. Under the direction of Third House secretary Bobby Poe, Student Congress members did much of the "behind the scenes" work.

Nominations for Homecoming Queen were few and far between. Because of the new legislation, girls nominated for the honor could not have received a semester grade of "D" or worse during their sophomore and junior years.

The elections did not have as big a turnout as expected. Because voting could only take place during lunch and before school, many chose not to vote at all.

Balloon sales began three weeks before Homecoming. The sale was a competition between the classes to see who could buy the most balloons for their class. The seniors won the competition by buying about $60 worth of balloons for their class.

Many more preparations were yet to be made. Each nominee was to receive a charm as a souvenir of her nomination. These charms had to be ordered and picked up, and flowers had to be ordered for the Homecoming pep rally.

The traditional hall decorating competition also required many hours of work. While sophomores chose "Mickey Goes to Heaven" as their theme, juniors chose "Juniors Go Hawaiian" as theirs. The seniors' theme, "After Graduation . . . It's a Jungle Out There," won the competition with tropical forests and native savages.

DeLeon Reigns

On the morning of Oct. 5, the excitement of Homecoming activities continued as girls talked of mums and guys and of the game against Burleson. After many hours of work on the traditional hall decorations, the seniors took first place with the theme, "After Graduation . . . It's a Jungle Out There." The eleventh graders placed second with the theme, "Juniors Go Hawaiian."

At the afternoon pep rally, exes returned to take part once again in the mighty Texan spirit. Principal B. H. Remynse introduced each class separately, and all were represented with the exception of 1973.

At the start of the game that night, balloons were released to show the extra Texan spirit we all had. The seniors won the spirit balloon sale by quite a margin. What a sight to see — 1300 red, white and blue balloons rolling through the sky like a bright Texan heaven.

As anticipation grew, the moment came to a close as Dana DeLeon was crowned Homecoming Queen 1984. Every girl's dream became Dana's reality that night.

"When I heard my name announced as being the 1984 Homecoming Queen, I was so shocked I just stood there and froze," she said.

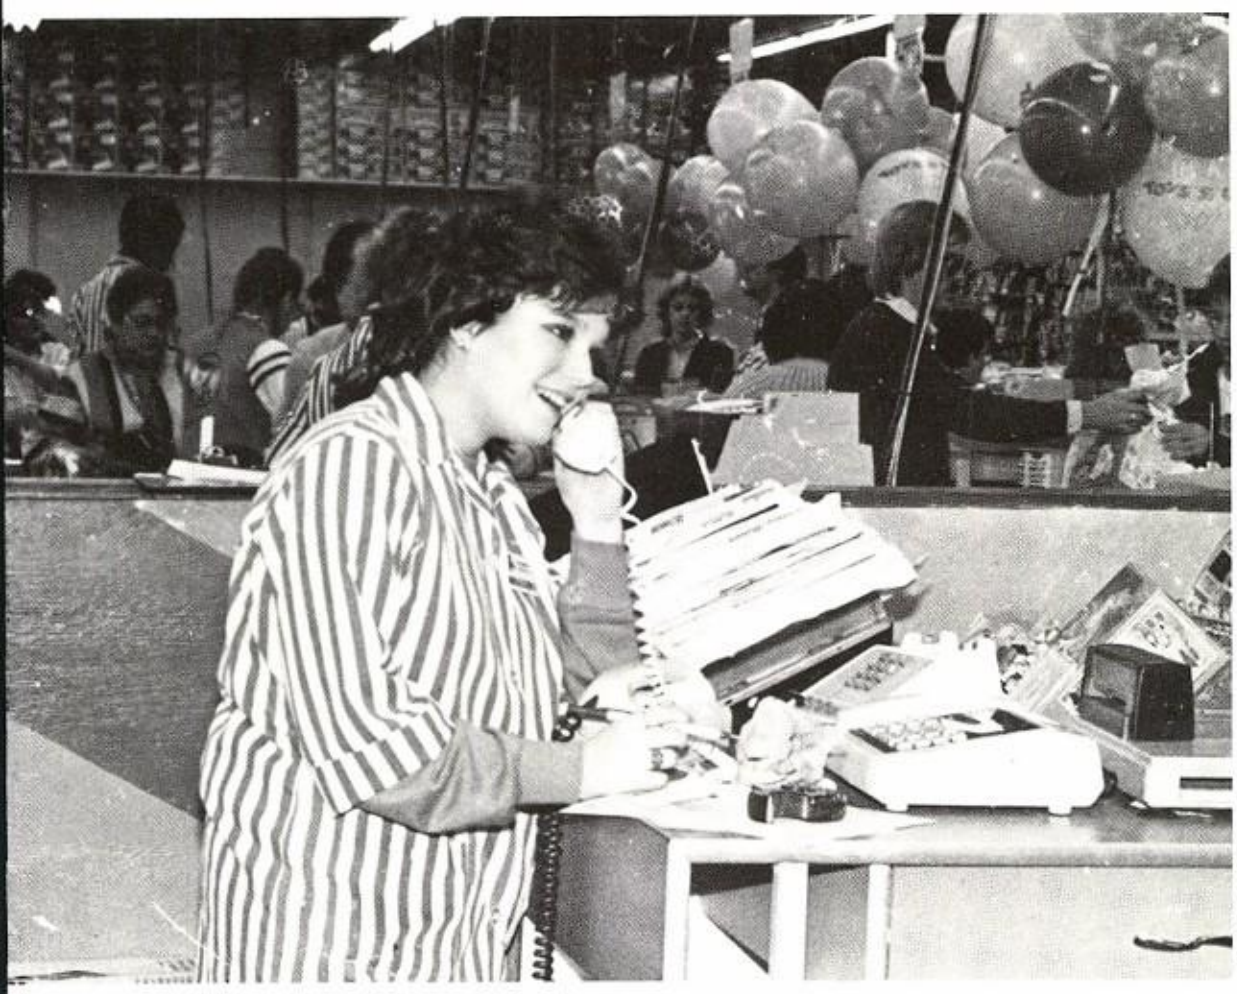
'I Have to Work Tonight'



Scott Hankins

Now that you're in high school, it's time for you to get a job.

Many students at Sam have joined the work force for a variety of reasons. There is always the precious car that can eat quite a bit of money in gas, the unexpected flat tire, and the little fender bender you were in Saturday night.

Of course there is the entertainment fund which teenagers seem to dip into for their weekend flings. Oh! Don't forget the latest style of clothes that most can't do without.

Part time jobs help train teenagers as well as provide money. Most employers prefer experienced personnel, which many teenagers are today. Thus without jobs our teenagers would be penniless, and uneducated beggars.

Brides, Brothers and Directors . . .

Live Happily Ever After

The first musical of the school year had a special newness. Both the drama director and the choir directors were beginners at their respective positions. Mrs. Trish Kinnaird was new to Sam Houston this year. Mr. Jeremy Walker, who has been at Sam Houston for 16 years as assistant band director, took an opening as the head of the Choral Department.

This musical, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," was performed on Dec. 13-15. It was the story of seven heathen brothers who decided that the oldest needed to get married. Adam (Darrell Wood), the oldest brother, married Millie (Melissa Gale) who decided to make the best of a bad situation and began cleaning up the boys for courting. The boys in turn kidnapped some girls they took a fancy to at a barn dance.

After a long, cold winter with the girls in the house and the boys in the barn, fathers and boyfriends came to the farm to claim their girls. During this courting session, the girls had fallen in love with the brothers. They all claimed Millie's baby as their own so they could get married.

Students Predict Landslide

During the 1984 Presidential election, students became involved in the excitement of voting and campaigning. Government classes were caught up in the heat of the campaign as they themselves nominated a candidate, prepared a platform and designed a unique commercial. Some students went on to support their candidate in the community by working at party headquarters.

Journalism sponsored a mock election, sampling students through English and government classes. The results of the campaign gave Ronald Reagan a decisive 398-112 victory. When asked their reasons for voting for Reagan, most gave his support of America and its ideals as the deciding factor. Other reasons included his track record, his strong defense plan and his economic outline.

Mondale supporters made their decision on the basis of his choice for a woman running mate, as well as his domestic programs that would benefit low-income families.

Results of the mock election were compatible with those of the national election. Reagan won by the largest electoral landslide in history.

Service Mixed With Fun . . .

No Rest for the Weary

Students' extracurricular activities often extended beyond the boundaries of the school campus. Service and fun were the primary motivational factors for these pastimes.

Such service activities were designed to benefit religious and community organizations. For fellowship and worship, many students joined youth choirs and youth groups within their individual churches. For many, their involvement in these groups meant going on tours, sharing concerns and problems that affected not only the community in which they lived, but also the world as a whole.

Church involvement also encompassed certain outreach missions. These included anything from visits to local nursing homes and the support of refugee families to week-long trips to minister to people across the U.S. boundary in Mexico. "I go to nursing homes with my church youth group. I do it because I feel they need to know someone cares," commented senior Tina Riley.

The March of Dimes and American Cancer Society sponsored several walk-a-thons and dance-a-thons. These activities allowed students to become involved in important fund raising activities.

Concern about teenage suicides prompted some youth to become involved in programs such as CARE and Contact. These programs were implemented in order to get the message across to young people that someone cares and is there for them. Sam Houston CARE representative, Michael Ledford, said, "By taking part in a cable show for CARE, I feel I reached many teenagers who were depressed and might have been contemplating suicide."

Through Student Congress, several students became involved in the Arlington Human Service Project. Sam Houston representatives Jennifer Buster and Christina Gratke worked on the Youth Committee which produced a youth yellow pages to be distributed next fall. The guide will include job opportunities, community activities, fun and entertainment, health needs, and school information.

The winter months saw skiers flocking to winter resorts. Christina Zertuche spent her time in Colorado mountain climbing. "It was a different experience. I made it to the top, and it was a cold, breathtaking experience," she recalled.

Six Flags, White Water and Wet 'n Wild were the old standbys when it came to spring and summer fun. Whether for work or play, these summer parks offered excitement for their guests.

Youthfest, sponsored by the Arlington Chamber of Commerce and the Arlington City Council PTA, offered a variety of events for all junior high and high school students during the last week of school.

The new craze of tanning salons and health clubs kept students and teachers busy as they took time out whenever they could to visit their favorite spa or salon.

Texan Day brought the traditional fun and excitement to the halls of Sam Houston. Instead of using valuable time in class, activities were planned during lunch and after school.

Those attending the carnival could choose anything from the dunking booth to the marriage and divorce booth to the most popular booth of all — the jail.

The raffle, also part of the Texan Day tradition, promised prizes such as Six Flags passes and free dinners. The grand prize winner received a Sony "Jam Box." After the carnival, couples could enjoy themselves at the cowtown dance.

Issues and Answers

Q: Do you believe that the drinking age should be raised to 21?
A: No, if an 18 year old is old enough to fight and die for his country, he is old enough to drink.
Q: How do you feel about the new school election policy?
A: The statistics speak for themselves. No one wants to spend the time if it is not done during a class period. The vote does not represent the school as a whole.
Q: Was the Democratic choice of Geraldine Ferraro a wise one?
A: The Democrats wanted something to overcome Reagan's popularity. It was a good try, but it wouldn't have affected my vote.

Thespians Enact 'Johnny Belinda'

The Drama Department's choice for One-Act Competition, "Johnny Belinda," proved to be a good one as it provided a moving and interesting plot for the audience and actors.

Belinda, a deaf and mute girl, struggled and fought for her independence and for the illegitimate child she felt she had a right to keep. The excitement of the plot allowed the actors to perform to their highest potential.

Long hours of practice and devotion also aided four cast members in gaining individual honors. Sophomore cast member Susan Connor, who played the main character, Belinda, received the distinction of being named to the all-star cast. Mike Nascimbeni received an honorable mention for his performance as Belinda's father.

Other honors went to Byron Bates for his portrayal of Locky and to Raylee Purkle for his role as the Reverend Tidmarsh.

"If a student really wants to be in the top of his class he must work hard and make sacrifices," said salutatorian Robert Bass as advice to students. He has decided to attend Texas Wesleyan College. He plans to major in pre-med biology.

Concerning his accomplishments in high school, Bass commented, "I don't think I'll know anything until after college. Several years from now, I hope I can say this has paid off."

"Don't just want to be valedictorian. Get involved with other things. If I were just valedictorian, I wouldn't have gotten anything from Sam. There is more to school than academics," commented Christina Gratke, who placed first in her class.

The valedictorian plans to attend Rice University and major in political science with a minor in accounting.

The valedictorian feels she has accomplished most of the goals she had set. "I'm excited about my future, but scared about the changes I am going to be facing," she said.

No Pass, No Play . . .

. . . We Made It Anyway

The Cherokee Assembly, held on May 8, provided an opportunity for students and faculty alike to share in the excitement of the end of the year.

While the awards portion of the program took up most of the time on stage, it will be a long time before people forget the comedy of the skits performed by the Cherokee, Texans Talk and Photo Journalism Staffs. The skits poked fun at the new school policies and the effect they had on school life during the year.

The theme of the assembly, "No Pass, No Play . . . We Made It Anyway," leant itself to the staffs' goal to show those attending that although the policies put a strain on school life, students still made it through the year.

Cheryl Buettner and Rod Morris narrated throughout the program. With their help, the audience was transported from a zero hour class to an evaluation day with a sweet talking teacher.

The highlight of the entertainment was Rod Morris' announcements in which he announced everything from someone being parked in a faculty parking space to the Junior Class cookie pie sale.

The end of the assembly brought a surge of joy and tears as Cherokee co-editors Jeanine Anderson and Beverly Click presented senior English teacher Mary Beth Lane with the 1985 Cherokee Yearbook dedication.

Lewis Receives Recognition

Jeff Johnson

All Sam Houston teachers possess certain qualities, but Mrs. Ann Lewis has been recognized for hers. The Kiwanis Club chose her as Arlington secondary teacher of the year after she won the honor at Sam.

Lewis was honored during Public Schools Week at a Kiwanis luncheon. The teacher has taught government at Sam for 12 years and sponsored student leadership for six.

She graduated from the University of Florida where she had planned on going into dental hygiene. Luckily for the teaching profession, there was no such program there, and she ended up teaching.

Wright Succeeds Counts

On Jan. 7, Dr. Donald L. Wright, 49, was announced as the new superintendent of the Arlington Independent School District.

Dr. Wright, who had been superintendent at Oklahoma City, will succeed J. W. Counts, who has been with the Arlington schools for 36 years. He has served in the top position since 1979.

Dr. Wright was screened and selected from 70 applicants. His contract has been granted for three years with a salary of $80,470 a year plus $400 a month for traveling expenses.

While Wright was superintendent in Oklahoma City, he received praise both from community leaders and school personnel.

According to Wright, academic scores rose during his tenure there, also.

He attributed this to the outstanding staff and support of parents. Wright took over on July 1.

Not Just a Game

Volleyball games can create so much stress and pressure one may just want to close one's eyes and hope it will be over with when she opens them again. Volleyball coaches learn in a hurry that they cannot let a game get to them. Coach Sue Ellis has seen many such pressure filled contests in her 30 year career.

Pressures didn't always just come from school. Sometimes they invaded her family, too. Nothing can be harder than playing against one's own daughter. Coach Ellis was put in this situation in the 1976 Championship Game against Arlington. Although Ellis' daughter wanted to attend Sam, her mother thought it would be better if she stayed with her friends.

This was a big mistake because Coach Ellis' daughter proved to be a big asset to Arlington's team as setter. The pressures on both coach and daughter were tremendous. Ellis said, "After every point the crowd would look for a reaction in our faces." This pressure proved to be in Arlington's favor because the Colts defeated Sam.

After coaching at Sam 17 years, Coach Ellis has decided it is time to move on to something else. She says she will miss the kids more than anything. Most of her energy will be put into the antique shop she and her husband own.

Since her starting days in Arlingto as a P.E. teacher at Ferguson Junio High, girls athletics have change drastically. Ellis is one of the coache who helped start girls' basketball at th junior high level by holding Saturda tournaments.

The passing of title IX saw girl sports updated. Soon girls' volleyba entered the high schools. With the hel of the USVBA and the good hig school coaches, this program was great success.

Sam Houston will miss Mrs. Ell and her contributions to sports.

Privileges . . . Who Says?

Teachers can do anything. They have t made. That's what some students feel, ut the teachers have a different story.

Why was in-service day created? Not ust to let the students have a day of est. No, in-service for teachers. While he students are at home asleep, the aculty members are sitting through ong boring meetings and trying to get aught up in their work. Some teachers nind coming to school when students ren't here. On the other hand some en- oy the peaceful working atmosphere. American government teacher Mr. John Elliott says, "No, I don't mind it. It allows us to get some work done."

"The Eagle has landed." This is heard once a month over the intercom, and it means that the teachers' paychecks are in. Getting paid once a month is not a joy for some.

Mrs. JoAnn Richey, business teacher, feels, "It's a disadvantage. I have to budget for the whole month when the bills are due toward the end of the month." Other faculty members feel it helps them save money.

"My husband and I both get paid at the first of the month. We pay all the bills, live on what is left, and hope for no emergencies," states senior English teacher Mrs. Mary Beth Lane.

While these things may or may not be privileges, teachers really do get some special treatment. Teachers get to park on the first rows, drink water or coffee in class sometimes, smoke in the lounge, and last, but not least, they don't get counted tardy.

Even though they get to park close to school, the students get revenge when the bell rings.

r. Danny Elam, Mr. Jerry Griffin, and Mr. Carl cEachern take a break during fourth period nch.

Dollars

Teachers undertake many duties as educators, but when teachers have two jobs, the task doubles. Many teachers at Sam Houston have part-time jobs. Teachers take after school jobs for a variety of reasons. While all go for extra money, some say they like the recognition and being able to work in different atmospheres than school.

Ms. Patricia Fowler and Ms. Judy Thomas both work at Six Flags in cash control. Other teachers working two jobs are Ms. Ann Lewis and Ms. Phyllis Collins. Lewis is employed at Banker's Note, a dress shop, while Collins is spending after school hours at Century Book Store in the Forum.

After her retirement, Ms. Sue Ellis will be spending much of her time at her antique shop. Also in the antique business is Ms. Sharon Phillips.

Ms. Dixie Kirkpatrick and Ms. Wahnita Boozer both work for Ebby Halliday real estate. The realtors both attended a National Convention of Realtors in Honolulu, Hawaii. They were given the honor of attending due to the amount of property they sold.

Not only do teachers have two jobs, but Administrator Carl McEachern is assistant director of operations at Traders Village. McEachern has held this position for 10 years.

So, students, when teachers get cranky or give excessive amounts of homework, it's not their fault. They just had a busy day at the office.

This school year was a busy one for the Cherokee staffers which started with a workshop in August at UTA. In October, members of the Journalism Department joined other city staffers for a picnic. Dec. 12, the annual Pixie Party was held at the Cherokee co-editor, Beverly Click's house. Secret pals exchanged their gifts after a potluck dinner.

As the new semester began, staffers started turning their efforts toward the Cherokee Assembly with their traditional meeting at Cheddar's. At regular weekly meetings, "No Pass, No Play . . . We Made It Anyway," became a theme for the May 8 Cherokee Assembly.

At the spring banquet in April, awards were given to Beverly Click, Christina Gratke, Robin Hadley, Rod Morris and Tina Riley. Tina also received the Best Staffer award.

Congress Makes Difference

When school ends, Student Congress just gets started. In June, the Student Congress heads off to leadership workshops to exchange ideas with different high schools in the area and prepare for the upcoming year.

"These workshops are designed to help the students with their leadership skills and are required for next year," said Mrs. Hannah Goolsby, Student Congress sponsor.

Remembering safety and being a part of Sam's social life, Student Congress worked to organize the events in school. S.A.D.D. was started by Student Congress and it was to help the students understand that drinking and then driving was a deadly combination.

"The different ideas that the Student Congress comes up with help to promote the main concerns of the students by getting the Student Body involved," said Mrs. Ann Lewis, Student Congress sponsor. This involvement has won Sam's chapter "Outstanding Student Congress in the District," six years in a row.

"As leaders, they are an invaluable part of the school, by creating an environment which is a part of our school and that is what makes us different," said Principal Bud Remynse. "Our Student Congress is respected by every school in our district."

Spirit Carried Through

Music Department

The musical side of Sam added a special touch of spirit to the school.

Band received new uniforms in the drum and bugle corps style. Students performed at UIL in March, but because of the no-pass, no play rules they couldn't perform at the UIL concert.

At the Spring Banquet the new junior drum major, Marcy Clark, was announced.

Orchestra gave a special performance at city-hall. Musicians also played at the administrative Christmas banquet before Arlington administrators.

Several members played at all region concert, and Todd Williamson went to all-state. They ended their year with a concert at Ferguson.

Choir performed a special Yee-Haw show on Texan Day. In April students gave their annual Celebration concert. First Class also gave a special concert in the spring.

Business = Success

Business clubs, Office Education Assocation and Future Business Leaders of America, had many winners this year.

In OEA, out of the 11 who participated in district, eight won a plaque. Four members went on to state competition. During the middle of the year members threw two birthday parties for Arlington Villa Nursing Home.

The students had a Christmas party in Mrs. Betty Brown's home, where secret pals exchanged their gifts. At the alumni dinner held at the end of the year, OEA members had a special treat when the choir sang for them. Lisa McLeroy was chosen as the Z-girl for Zonta International.

FBLA had 14 district winners and three state winners. Senior Norman Mendez won first at nationals. To congratulate Norma's achievements, FBLA held a pool party for her.

Rain Soaks Texans' Hopes

We love it, we love it, we love it — hat is, a chance to get to play at Texas tadium.

"It feels great! I knew that one day all f that hard work and team effort by he offense, defense and specialty teams ould pay off," said Head Coach Billy tewart.

The Texans were to face the Nimitz ikings on Saturday, Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. in Texas Stadium. Principal B. H. Remynse helped to boost the Texans' already overflowing morale by welcoming '81 graduate and Texan player Scotty Caldwell to a Friday pep rally.

Caldwell talked to the players, students and faculty about the importance of team work. Caldwell said that team work had led the Texans to their victories and can lead them to many more.

Saturday was rainy and very cold. The Texan fans showed up in full force, but the team came up short. Nimitz won 29-0. It seemed the harder the Texans tried, the harder the rain fell. It was a disappointing loss, but Texan pride enabled the players to hold their heads high because they were still 7-5A District Champs.

Houston Captures District

Who's that talkin' bout beatin' dem Texans? asks a popular cheer. It must not have been any of the teams in District 7-5A because no one beat the Texans.

Many games were not decided until the last minutes of the fourth quarter, but not many complaints were heard when the Texans came away with a victory.

Many fans were bored and did not pay any attention to the games the Texans were winning by quite a margin. The best and most exciting games of the season were played at UTA's Stadium.

Some fans had mild coronaries during the game against Trinity because of the exciting finish. This was the only game the Texans did not win. It was a tie, 21-21.

At the Arlington game, the rivalry was everywhere. The Texans let th Colts think they had won. Many fan could not believe the Texans were go ing to lose this one. In the last minute of the game the Texans came back an took the contest, leaving many dejecte Colts. The strong rivalry caused th game to be both mentally and physica ly tough.

Rain Vs. Football . . .

JV'ers Suffer a Muddy Outcome

Rain, Rain, Rain is the football field's worst enemy. Also it is the enemy of the mother who has to wash the dirty uniform. During the months of October and November, Arlington received great amounts of rain. This made Wilemon Stadium a mud bowl.

The field conditions may not have hurt the JV's season, but it sure did not help it. It is hard to run on a muddy field with a muddy ball while being chased by muddy defensive players.

Sophomore Gary Langley said, "The games we won were tough, but we survived and showed them what we were made of."

JV'ers received a lot of support from the varsity players this season. "Without them and our own conscience, I don know what we would have done," sa sophomore Bobby Lomoureux.

Although the season was not good as some expected, the Texans le on a good note with a win over Mart 20-6. Coach Tommy Cantrell said, "T final win gave us a good taste in th mouth."

Yellowhounds: They Ain't What They Used to Be

If one is in a hurry to get somewhere, do not take an Arlington Independent School District bus. It was a good thing the volleyball teams were in no hurry because they did a lot of waiting. It is hard for the buses to make their afternoon rounds and make it back to the schools in time to carry volleyball teams to out-of-town games.

Early in the season, senior Pat Potts asked Coach Sue Ellis why the players had to arrive at 4:15 p.m. when the bus never came until 30 minutes later. Mrs. Ellis said, "We are ever hopeful that the bus will arrive on time."

Four days after school started, the volleyball team suited out and packed gear to go to Newman Smith for a non-district game. The bus did not arrive until about 6:30 p.m. Many girls started their homework sitting on the curb waiting for the bus. Others learned how to drive a standard in the parking lot.

The team did not get home until 10:45 p.m. Many people could tell who was on the volleyball team the next day because of the dark circles under their eyes.

Just four days after this, bus problems struck again. The bus trip to Berkner was fine. When the team came outside after the games, the bus had a flat tire. Another bus was not sent until 10:30 p.m.

One would think a bus driver knows how to go to the schools in District 5A, but on a trip to L. D. Bell, the team wound up at Birdville Stadium.

Most of the team members take their homework with them to the game because they know they will be late getting home. The team also knows if the coach tells them the bus will leave at 4:15 p.m., they can start arriving about 4:45.

Second-guessing buses became a full time job, but no one ever won.

10 P.M. Do You Know Where the Spikers Are?

Ross Perot must be proud of himself for the confusion and chaos he caused in the Arlington Invitational Volleyball Tournament. Games were not allowed to begin until 3:30 p.m.

While Mr. Perot was probably home sleeping in his nice warm, cozy bed, Sam Houston and Newman Smith were battling it out on the court at the terrible time of 12 a.m.

Also Pearce and Grand Prairie were given fifth place together because Pearce had already played three games, the UIL limit for one day.

As for the coach who hosted the tournament, sleep was hard to come by because she was there when it ended late and there when it started early. Mr. Perot was probably amused.

Despite these problems, the Texans managed to hold on to a second place tie with Arlington and L. D. Bell.

Although crowds had been small at early games, Texans filled the stands for the season finale. Unfortunately, Coach Sue Ellis saw her career end on a loss to Bell which eliminated Sam's playoff hopes.

New and Old Talent

JVers usually have a hard time becoming a team. There are the possibilities that team members might be moved up to the varsity, and B team members might be moved up to the JV.

Both JV and sophomore groups were very talented, according to Coach Theresa Frederick. She sees an improvement each year as sophomores are more talented and adapt quicker to high school volleyball.

The JV record does not reflect the ability of the team. Players were 5-7 on the year, but they lost many close games that could have gone either way. The most exciting point of the season was when the JV defeated rival Martin in the last district game. The third and final game was close, but the Texans pulled it out 21-19.

The sophomore team boasted the best record of the season at 6-4. It was one of the better sophomore teams Sam has had in recent years. The only teams the girls could not overcome were Martin and Arlington. Both games were hard-fought and came down to the wire.

Texans 'Hoop Up' District

The Sam Houston Texan Basketball ayers once again made themselves own as they took a share of the strict championship in 7-5A. The Tex-s were 10-2 in district play and 22-13 erall, including playoffs.

They were led by second team all-strict Bryce Cannon, most valuable ayer Rod Garrett, second team all-district Troy Standback and Bobby Cartwright, a transfer from Dayton, Ohio. Cartwright, along with Vance Bailey, was named defensive player of the year. Mike "Lester" Smith was named "Mad Dog" player of the year.

Prior to the season's district play, the Texans faced a tough non-district schedule. The Texans opened district play with a disappointing 63-46 loss to Bell, but turned around and wound off 10 straight district wins. The Texans took an exciting playoff game from Martin 66-64 and set up a bi-district game with MacArthur. Sam went in as the number one seed but lost a close 62-61 contest.

Steaks Make Perfection

Most people when tempted with eak and potatoes will do what it takes get them. The Sam Houston Lady exans did just that with their perfect -0 district record.

This all came about one day in prac-e when some of the girls were goof-g around with Coach Cindy Duval, ying that if they had a perfect district cord they deserved steak and potatoes. Coach Duval agreed, thinking tht her team would do well this season, but not that well.

After winning District 7-5A the ladies moved right on through bi-district, area, and to regionals before being defeated by Lubbock's Monterey High, 70-48.

All the extra talent it took to get that far was seen in the picks for the all-district team which included Claudette Pointer as offensive player of the year. Pam Franklin and Paula Henderson also made the first team. Second team honors went to Tineké Selmon and Nina Brackins. The honorable mention member was Sheryl Leake.

By the way, the team members did receive their steak and potatoes, and they said dinner was delicious.

JVers Place Fifth

A strong showing at the beginning of the season helped the junior varsity basketball team win fifth in district. The Texans won the first three district games against Bell, Burleson and Trinity, before losing to Arlington High.

Losses at the end of the season kept the JV from ranking higher, but the varsity was supportive throughout the season.

Soccer Experiences Losses

Soccer had a disappointing season this year. Both varsity and junior varsity lost all of the games that they played. One of the better games was 2-2 against Martin at the end of the season. "It went into a shoot-out, but neither team could break the tie," exclaimed Coach Ronnie Powers.

One of the reasons why the boys did not play so well this year was due to inexperience. "We are all hoping that our guys get together and form an excellent team next year," said Coach Robert Swain.

If all goes well, Sam hopes to come out on top in soccer starting next season. Unfortunately for us, though, the Texans did not have the experience it took to win.

Kickers Show Improvement

If one had to pick a high spot in the girls' soccer season, few would argue with the last Lamar game. While Lamar totally dominated all of the other city teams, Sam defeated Lamar in a shootout 3-0.

The JV did very well this year under new coach Theresa Frederick. The JV'ers only had two teams, Lamar and Martin, to compete against in the district since Arlington's JV fizzled out.

Some of this year's games were very controversial. Martin refused to play Lamar, and Martin combined some varsity members with the JV against Sam.

Coach Frederick says in her eyes her team is the second place team.

Many girls received all district honors. First team winners were forward Carla Cleeton and fullback Rhonda Holland. Halfback Traci Hogue won second team with goalie Carolyn Leal.

The varsity ended the season with one win and five losses. Although the statistics were not that good, Coach Connie Thomas said, The effort put forth by the girls was tremendous. This is only the second year Sam has had a girls' soccer team, and a great improvement is already noticeable."

Tracksters Capture Second

Roy Taylor . . . who is he? Many asked this question when his name was heard over the PA for the area track meets.

Now almost everyone knows Roy Taylor, since he won the 800 meter race at the UIL State Championship with a time of 1:15.9.

In overall team competition at the city meet among the four high schools, Sam placed second. Trevor Johnson placed first in the long jump with a mark of 20′1″. Kevin Sims came in second with a mark of 19′7½″. Ray Johnson won the 200 meter race with a time of 23.08.

Derrick Jones placed second with a time of 23.47. The Texans took the 400 meter relay with a time of 43.79, and they also won the 1600 meter relay with a time of 3:33.28.

The regional track meet was held at Texas Tech in Lubbock May 3-4. Texans were represented in large numbers by five seniors, Keith Cunningham, Curtis Eaden, Roy Taylor, Wessie Wright, Steve McKenzie, two juniors, Robert Hill and Tony Sparks, and three sophomores, Kevin Sims, Derrick Jones and Roy Thomas.

Taylor was the only one of the group who won a medal, but they all contributed to the team wins.

With a second in district and a large number of regional contenders, the girls' track team has an excellent season.

As a result of their district performance, 11 girls were eligible for regionals, May 3-4 in Lubbock. This represented more contenders than in recent years.

Girls were Sherrie Ogle, Yolanda Twine, Gina Nault, Tara Buffum, Tijuana Glenn, Michelle Boyde, Tineke Selmon, Carolyn Wright, Deborah Haley, Charlotte Morris, Deanna Ross and Angie Reid.

Earlier meets saw the Texans win the Theo Rigsby Relays in Birdville and the Elks' Relays in Burleson. Two points separated the Texans and the HoneyBees at the Stephenville Meet, and the team finished third overall at Weatherford. Individuals and relay teams, however, often took firsts.

JV Improves Game

Improvement was a key word for the Texan team, as some good pitching and hitting boosted the team's record from 6-8 in '84 to 8-1 in '85. Overall, the team was 13-4-1.

"The Texans dropped their first game of the district season to Bell, but rebounded to take the last eight games of the season.

Sam got some excellent pitching from Mick Bailey (7-1, 1.72 ERA) and Hobey Strawn (5-1,1.06 ERA) Kurt Black, 362, Ivan Villalobos, 361, and Roger Rumsey, 321, were all threats at the plate. Greg Edwards, Tom Gentz and Villalobos were all base-stealing threats.

"I thought it was one of the better JV baseball teams we've had at Sam Houston," said Coach Clyde. Added Clyde, "Even though we played a limited number of games, they were ready to play in every game."

Mick Bailey had this to say. "I thought it was a good year for us and we had a lot of teamwork to go with it."

Bailey, a junior, will not be participating with the Texans next year as he is moving to another district. However, others on this squad will be looking for an even better year.

Hold That Pose
Smile and Say

'Cheese'

While most sophomores and juniors were lounging around enjoying summer, many seniors received picture announcements. These were the first reminders of the up-coming school year. Suddenly seniors headed for shopping malls to buy just the right clothes for their casual picture.

Many girls were trying to decide how to wear their hair and makeup. Boys were receiving haircuts at the same time. Girls were also worrying where they would find the handy tube top which could make the drape shot so easy.

On the day of the pictures, many seniors arrived at Sam not knowing what to expect. Most thought the process would be long and boring. But it took about 10 minutes and was one of the easiest picture sessions many had ever been through.

Isn't Five Minutes . . .

Amazing?

It is hard to believe that the five minutes we all enjoyed last year between classes is the same five minutes we dread each day.

Last year you could stop by your locker, talk to friends in A-hall and not be tardy to your class in F-hall. This year you take all of your books with you from first period until lunch. You have to shove and push all the way down the hall.

At least we have 55 minutes to rest our book weary arms. That is unless there is a pep rally. Then there is only 50 minutes of rest. Last year you rested your brain between classes; this year you rest your body during class from the running back type moves everyone has to make in the halls.

You have to decide whether to shove left, right, forward or backward. Football players think they are at practice while shoving through the hall. The football team should be extra good this year because they practice all day long.

Looking for Place of . . .

Our Own

People like to have a place that they an call their own — where they know ey can always go. Journalism students sed to have a place of their own, a gular classroom and annual room ith four walls and a door. Now what o we have? We don't have much, but e library has us.

When I first found out our room was eing remodeled, I thought, "Great!" hen I started thinking about how othing seems to ever get finished on me.

We packed up our belongings and ut them away with all the photo stuff the photography room. When I came ack in the summer and saw the mess, I new right then it could only mean one ning — mass chaos. I didn't know exctly how it would work out being pstairs in the library. Going up and own the stairs all the time is not exact- fun, but we got our exercise.

Photography was no longer next oor to us. We had to trek clear across e school to the darkroom. It wasn't a al darkroom. Mr. Steve Howell and e photo journalists made a omemade one out of heavy plastic.

Being in the library was never dull. Ve got to see all sorts of things go on. During sophomore orientation, we had to get used to being without lights at least three times a week.

If there hadn't been windows in the library I don't know what we would have done.

Not only did we learn all about the library, but we got to be experts on how class pictures were made, since they were taken in "our room."

After awhile, we felt like a robot giving the same instructions over and over again to the juniors and sophomores.

It didn't turn out all that badly because we were closer to the office and the copy machine. We were in the central area of the school. And, after all, if we needed to look anything up for reference, we were already in the best place possible.

Football Season Is
A Favorite Time for . . .

The Non-watching of Games

And the crowd jumps to its feet, yelling and cheering the running back to his final destination. Yes, another touchdown has been made in this fist and tooth fight on the football field. But, which play got the team to the 10 yard line? Who ran and made that flying catch on to the 20 yard line? No one knows.

While the football team is sweating it out on the field, the spectators are gossiping, girl/guy watching or freezing to death in the stands.

Laurie Wolf, senior, says how she spends her time, "I usually socialize with the crowd, while trying to watch the game at the same time." Football games are the best places to talk to everyone. There, time really has no limit, unlike school with only five minutes between classes and class itself.

"I don't really watch the game. I talk to friends, walk around and look at the guys. The only time I watch the game is when someone I know is doing something or if something exciting is happening," replies senior Kim Berube.

When it's cold outside, most people have to walk around and talk to try to keep the blood circulating. Viewing figures of the opposite sex is just another total necessity when at a football game.

Now, why would we even think of having a game if it were not for these reasons. Other wise, Ross Perot can take football back with him to his mansion and keep it there.

Oh well, maybe when we are old and gray we'll really watch a football game when our kids are in it. Or, — maybe we'll just let our minds wander. What about Mr. Andrews over there? I heard he is a single man . . .

H. Ross Perot Wants to Forget the Body and . . .

Get Our Minds in Shape

The subject of academics versus extracurricular activities is not a new one for me. I have always been involved in and have seen the advantages of both.

For years, I have felt that academics were taking a back seat to the activities of clubs and sports. Students were getting confused about the reason they were in school.

The first priority is to do homework and then sustain decent grades. Extracurricular activities are exactly what their title implies — extra.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not saying extracurricular activities are unimportant. In some ways, I think students can learn more from them.

The skills in leadership and responsibilities that develop from the extracurricular experience is something that books could never teach. Sports and clubs show students how to have fun and work as a team. They are an important factor in the learning process.

In a way, H. Ross Perot has the right idea. His emphasis on academic learning will bring about a more intelligent breed of Texans within the next few years. He has also, however, done students a great disservice by depriving them of another form of education.

Academics and extracurricular activities should work hand-in-hand in the learning process. The correct balance has not yet been found, but I hope that in the near future, Texan education officials will realize the importance of both and do something about it.

Does Your Car . . .

Match Your Personality?

Volkswagens, Trans-Ams, Regals and a Chevy truck park on the same row as I do. In each car a different type of person gets out. A studious, easy-going guy leaps from the banged up yellow Volkswagen. A pile of head-banger girls rolls out, with the smoke of the Trans-Am. The Regal holds a pair of star-crossed lovers engaged in serious conversation. And, a bow-legged cowboy "busts-out"of his Chevy truck to wrangle with all the cowgirls in the parking lot.

To say that a car does not represent a personality would be a total lie. Even if the car itself does not go exactly with that person, something inside signifies a belonging. It may be a bandana on the rearview mirror or a bumper sticker that says, "I Love Twinkies." But something in or on that car says, "This is me."

"I think my car shows my personality because it has a super sonic soundin' stereo and has class," says sophomore Samantha Baldridge.

Senior Tiffany Joslin declared, "I think my truck shows my personali because it has a killer stereo system ar carries me from party to party. I'm partyin' person."

Most students feel that their kind transportation is advertisement to t kind of person they are, whether it be motorcycle, Datsun, or Camaro. But i the person, inside that car with the different colors or banged-up rear en that really counts.

Seniors Peddle
Publications for . . .

Edible, Tangible Prizes

Magazine sales helped raise money or the Senior Class in a quick high noney intake method. This money was sed to help pay for the annual senior rom.

Many of the country's best salesper-ons emerged during this time. ophomores, juniors and teachers were he first hit up by the ambitious sales ersons. The more subscriptions sold, the bigger and better the prize.

There was a wide variety of gifts offered to the seniors: T-shirts, watches, calculators, radios, candy bars and yearbooks.

Although sales were down from last year almost $4,000, a number of upper classmen emerged big winners.

A few of these winners were: Angie Holloway (10 pound Hershey bar), Michael Ledford ($100), Mark Mikeska ($50). Top salesperson was Michael Porter, second top salesperson was Steve Witt. Calculator winners were Sandra Rejek, Michael Porter, Elisa Speck, Norma Mendez, Wendy Irwin, Deana Wood, Christina Gratke, Tony Benz, Heather Rinesmith and Pat Potts.

Advantages of Texas Life

"I thought of Texas as cowboys and ties," said senior Wendy Raney, who ived in Arlington December, 1983 m Ortonville, Mich. "I was surprised see big buildings and everything so ch closer together."

Detroit economy stinks, and the ne rate and unemployment rate are l high," Raney said. "Michigan has a l, gray overcast, while Texas just ms to glow."

The school Raney attended in chigan is poor, and activities are only people who could afford them. The t per person for each sport is about , and if there is not enough money erated, the sport is cancelled. Glad t athletics aren't run like that in as, Raney enjoys golf, swimming and four-wheeling. "I play softball now with the Arlington Girls Softball Association Team, called the Cowgirls, but this past summer the Angels, another team in our division, picked me to play with them in Austin for state." Raney plays third base, short stop and catcher.

"The community where I lived didn't have a lot of money and prices were high, particularly gas and food," Raney said. "It was hard to get the public to donate money to our school because of inflation," Raney continued. "Schools are better off in Texas."

The senior, who wants to be a veterinarian, worked four and a half years in a kennel in Michigan and now is employed at the 303 Animal Clinic.

Raney says, "I needed a job for the experience." She works weekends, assisting surgery and operating x-ray and teeth cleaning machines.

Unusual things do happen at the clinic. "A lady wanted a note read to her dog at least once a day to show she still cares,"Raney said, "and once a lady sent flowers to her dog."

Raney has two pets of her own to spoil, a dog named Jack Daniels and a cat named Tom Collins. She would like more pets, but her father does not agree. "I also had a horse and won a couple of blue ribbons.

"When I first came to Arlington and came up to the school, I saw a sign that said, 'In the halls of Sam Houston, there are no strangers.' That sign made me feel wanted, even though I didn't know anybody."

In the future Raney would like to attend Texas A&M and have a career as a veterinarian.

College-Bound Students Try

Testing

Seniors who want to go to college must take either the ACT or the SAT. This causes much worry and many hours of study.

Vocabulary words and math problems have to be gone over to help prepare for the test. Many bright and sunny weekends are spent indoors studying.

The SAT and ACT are very important. They can decide if you are able to go to the college of your choice. Many people do very well and do not even study for the test. So studying is not a must to pass the tests, but it can be to your advantage.

What's Your . . .

Senior Ambition?

Remember when you couldn't wait to be a senior? All you could think about was prom, Homecoming, graduation, graduation and graduation.

Then guess what — reality slapped you in the face and you realized there was more than envied privileges to being an upper classman.

For instance, the big question becomes, "Should I go to college?" You want to further your education, but just the thought of four more years of homework makes you sick.

When and if you decide to go to college, you're expected to decide from a million different things what you want to do. Decisions, decisions, I hate them, especially when I'm not exactly sure what I want to do.

Another big question is, "What if I spend all that money and don't enjoy what I do?" Oh well, that's a risk we all take.

But look at the positive side. What if you spend all that money and love what you do? Enjoy college and don't feel pressured to make decisions! Kick back, relax, and go in undeclared!

Initiation Rites

Sophs Say Howdy

What would we do without Howdy Day? It is an exciting time during which the juniors and seniors initiate the lowerclassmen. This isn't your average boring day. There are plenty of people who can vouch for that.

We have all been through it at one time or another. We regretted it when we were sophs, but we were glad when we became the revengers.

People who think fraternity initiations are bad should come to Sam on Howdy Day. I didn't believe half the things I saw on this memorable occasion. Juniors made sophs hold their noses, showing that they stink. Seniors had them pushing pencils down the halls with their noses.

But, after it was all over, I had a big laugh about how ridiculous everyone looked.

It will be, I'm sure, one of the many things most past students will remember about Sam — with a smile.

Not for Money or Work,
Some Guys Are Just . . .

Breakin' for Fun

Epileptic seizure? Nervousness? No, breakdancing — the hottest thing around since Saturday Night Fever.

Sam has its own group of dancers called "Body Control." This group includes Gino Johnson, Lance Brooks and Danny Ramos. The group won a trophy in a contest last year, but the guys aren't dancing much anymore.

Johnson and Brooks were the first members of "Body Control."

"We needed an addition to our group, so we got Danny," commented Johnson.

Each of the guys had a different person or thing to influence him. Johnson was interested by a friend Ramos was influenced by TV and the dance called The Robot. Lance belonged to another group before "Body Control."

Floor, pop and locking are all types of breakdancing. "Breaking on the floor is gone, but popping and locking are here to stay," expressed Brooks.

Maybe someday these guys will create their own dance. In the meantime, they'll just stick to their own styles of what is already in.

Juniors socialize outside of the dance before they go inside to show off their new steps.

One Thing Many Juniors Ask Is . . .

Can You Beat the Clock?

Finding your class at Sam is like gambling and hoping you win. The numbering system is so goofy that landmarks are offices and familiar teachers.

Try this for directions from the library to Crabtree's history. Go down the west stairs and take a right past Ms. Yvonne Davis's room and Ms. Tommie Williams' office. Go left at the intersection. Take a right at the next hall. Mr. Doug Crabtree's class is the first door on the left.

See how much more simple that is than finding Room B129?

When one has mastered the halls, one can then learn how to use the five minutes between classes to the maximum benefit.

Some students are more organized than others. For example, you can go to your locker, get a drink of water, ma a trip to the restroom, go to yo friend's class, congratulate a basketb player and still beat the tardy bell? N Then you're not trying.

Surviving effectively at Sam is jus game of chance.

With practice, you can hit jackpot every time.

Whichever Station
You Listen To . . .

Crank It

Years ago TV was one of America's favorite pastimes, but that's not the case now. Over the recent years, music has become more and more popular. Now there's a wide choice of radio stations that play a variety of music for just about anyone's taste.

Those who enjoy the Headbanging Rock probably listen to Q102, 98 KZEW or 97 KEGL with the volume turned up for that special earsplitting effect.

Then there are the stations like 92.5 KAFM and 103.7 KVIL for the more mellow rocker. There's just the right mixture of hard and light rock with a few New Wave tossed in.

Those who prefer a little funk and disco (for breakdancing) probably listen to 107 KNOK.

And then there's 96 KSCS for those people who like two-stepping with some great country hits. One thing holds true — we couldn't survive without those radio stations and their music.

One of the Most Important Things in High School Is

Having a Special Friend

What is a best friend? A best friend is someone who is there when you are upset. He shares your feelings and helps you to sort out your problems.

Friends cheer you up when you are depressed or get in a tight spot. They help you make the right decision at the right time whether it be girlfriend or boyfriend problems.

It's always funny — you can help someone else with his problems, but you can't figure out your own. If you get sick, your best friend is there to make sure you are up and on your feet in no time at all.

Your best friend supports you in anything you do no matter what it is. Homework and family problems are two big things they can help you with.

Friendship is love. It is also wondering how and why you deserve such a good best friend.

These special people are the only ones in the whole world to whom you can tell everything. On your birthday, he or she makes you feel like the most special person in all the universe.

Most important of all, best friends know all of your faults and still like you.

hristina Zertuche and Marti Cherry show their friendship through a hug the halls.

Yearbook Photos

Photos for the Cherokee are scheduled months in advance, but students can plan on rain and wind on the appointed days. It almost never fails that hair falls or frizzes and skin breaks out just when it's important to look one's best.

Although seniors were photographed in the summer, underclassmen still got the wham-bam 60 second treatment.

Pictures were taken as planned this fall in spite of last summer's legislation. What would be done next year was anybody's guess.

Even students were surprised at their quick field trip to the library. One confused sophomore, used to being held captive in class, remarked, "How did we get here?: We can't even go to the bathroom?"

As Far as Preferences
For Picky Eaters Go

OUT IS IN for Munchers

Most people would rather starve. If you dine in the cafeteria, some people claim you are mentally ill. Why? Maybe because it's not the IN PLACE to go for lunch.

"It is the worst thing you could ever do in your entire life," jokes senior Ed Rinehart about eating in the cafeteria. "It's like being in the hospital with no way out," says soph Cindy Wheeler.

Where are the IN PLACES to eat? Texans differ in their choices. "I never have lunch," says Jeanine Anderson. "I stay up in the library working on this annual." Her co-editor, Beverly Click, agrees but says if she does eat, home is her choice. "I get to watch 'All My Children' and don't have to spend any money," she admits.

Tami Pool agrees. "I go home, too. It's cheap, and my mom is home with food done."

Both Melissa Firor and Keenan Williams like Chinese food and opt for China Rose or House of Chan. David Theads and Trey Chaney head for Pizza Inn or Pizza Hut. McDonald's fast service attracts Bridgett Cooper, while the beef and cheddar sandwich draws Robby Landon to Arby's.

Dairy Queen is Tina Riley's favorite spot. "I like the onion rings, and they put this really yummy crust on their Belt Busters."

Texans differ on their spots to dine, but all agree — Lunch is still in.

Alarm Begins New Year

"R-r-ring" the alarm clock goes off at six Monday morning Aug. 27, the first day of school for Sam students. For some poor kids the alarm rang earlier because of "0" hour.

As they stumbled out of bed groggy and sleepy-eyed, many were starting to realize the importance of the day. As school began it brought them closer to graduation and freedom.

When the 8:15 bell rang most kids felt a rising excitement. "What will this be like?, What am I doing here?" and "What's for lunch?" were some of the questions that went through most of the kids' minds. While some of the students felt summer was too short, most of the students, who were here last year, looked forward to getting back with old friends and meeting new ones.

To the new students it was pretty terrifying. They couldn't get from one hall to another without getting turned around.

Moving up a class was another step forward for most students. "I feel more in charge of what I do," commented April Forbes.

As the year progressed, the students were slowly getting used to the halls and the tardy system. But as the clock slowly ticked toward 3:25, the students were stirring restlessly in their seats while waiting for the bell.

When the long awaited bell finally rang, the halls were filled with hundreds of screaming, laughing and talking kids trying to escape to temporary freedom.

For everyone the day hadn't been a total success. "My first day was so great, I couldn't stand another day," Julie Gauvey sarcastically remarked.

Pack Up Your Swim Suit,
Get Out Your Jeans, It's . . .

The First Day of School

As I rise up from the bed my mother sticks her head in the door, "Today's the big day!" she says with an evil grin.

The stream of water from the shower nozzle slaps me awake and reality overcomes me. Today is the day to put aside the bathing suit and pick up the blue jeans.

Sitting at the breakfast table, my Alpha Bits spell out obscene things such as report cards and semester tests. I swallow the scream rising up from my right hand as it realizes the torture of writing will soon begin.

My ride to school pulls up and the car seems to take the shape of a hearse!

No, it couldn't be.

Thunder and lightning loom over the school as a mysterious chord on an organ is played.

I take a deep breath, brush the cobwebs from my mind and enter "The School Zone."

After a Couple
Of Timid Tries

Sophs Turn Up the Volume

"We're the best sent from Heaven, Senior Class of '87" did not roll off the tongues of sophomores during the first class competition at the pep rally.

Instead, plenty of yawns, mumbles and whispers were heard throughout the gym. To say the sophomores did not know what they were doing would be putting it mildly. But what other Sophomore Class ever knows what to do at the first or second pep rally? Not any.

It takes time to learn all the skills it takes to open one's mouth and say a simple line. But, maybe one of these days sophomores will grow up and learn to be as talented as the magnificent seniors and win the battle cry competition. (If they're lucky!)

assing of Howdy Day
rings Sighs of Relief

Beep, Beep . . . and Other Stories

I had been relieved that Wednesday was not "Howdy Day" when an announcement was made that it was in fact "Howdy Day."

When third period ended, the first person I saw was Robert Charanza, the biggest one in the entire school. The two hundred and fifty pounder told me to sing, and I did just that.

After eluding him, I was greeted with a flock of juniors, some of whom I didn't even know.

The worst embarrassment was getting on my knees with a friend and saying "beep, beep — I'm a jeep." Yesterday was the first day that the classes went fast, but the time between classes went slow. The last thing I had to do was sing the fight song while hopping up and down. I only made one big mistake, however. A friend and I told a senior that "he couldn't make us." He was very successful in making us. The good part, however, is that now I do not have anything to dread. I can now look forward to the school year.

It's That Time
To Elect Soph

Leaders

Elections, elections, elections. Although the Presidential race topped voter interest in elections, the sophomores took the Sam lead in balloting.

More tenth graders became actively involved in officer elections than in past years. In fact, a runoff balloting was held for the presidency of the Sophomore Class because of the intense interest in the election.

After the runoff, Michelle Wilson came out on top to become the first president of the Class of 1987. The rest of the officers elected were Todd Atkins, vice-president; Michelle Mooney, secretary/treasurer; Veronica Pierce, girls' social chairman; and Jason Dalton, boys' social chairman.

When Products Go Up
For Grabs, Sophs Are

Suckered by Sales Pitch

It's amazing how complicated your life can become when you reach high school. With so many different fund raising activities going on at the same time, it's hard to keep up with all the money you have spent and collected. It takes an accountant to figure it all out!

Then, on the one day that you planned to stop eating sweets, you're the first one in your class to order a cookie pie. It's as if everyone knows which areas are your weakest, and the exact time at which you're the most vulnerable.

All at one time these things you've ordered come in. Amazingly, all the money you've budgeted for this expense and that expense is gone. So, you do the only thing anyone in your position can do. You go to your parents and ask for a loan, promising, of course, that you'll pay it back as soon as possible.

In order to convince your parents you start justifying your expenses. The fashion magazine that you ordered will "expand your educational horizons." You needed a Sam Houston hat and football game ribbons so that you could demonstrate your school spirit The M&Ms you bought were really for your mother. And, you really thought that the Advent calendar would help to decorate the house for holiday visitors.

No matter how much you try to justify it, you know that you'll never be able to. We've all been suckered into buying something that we didn't really need or want. It'll never change, so we might as well work to make the money that we'll need to at least keep even with the money we spend.

What's Clean About . . .

Being a Soap Junkie?

Soap operas take up many lunch hours for some people. But, there is a new breed of soap opera on Prime Time TV. It started with Dallas, but now there are many different ones such as Dynasty, Knots Landing, and Falcon Crest.

Each year at the end of the season each show presents some kind of cliffhanger which is answered in the first half of the new season.

One year John and Jane are married. The next year they get a divorce. Then John and Jane want to get back together, but Jane dies. She later reappears married to an old boyfriend.

Instead of soap opera, maybe it should be called the Twilight Zone.

You Mean Under That Tough Exterior Is A

Girl?

Homecoming turned some of the world's best girl jocks into "girls." Some girls actually unglued their basketball shoes to substitute them for high heels. Demeaning!

I must have walked by 10 people I didn't recognize because they were wearing disguises which consisted of dresses (a sorry attire) and makeup. I felt compelled to shove them in the nearest truck, take them home or at least change into a nice pair of faded jeans and take them back to watch the Texan football team win.

I was especially shocked to find one of my good friends turned traitor and absolutely went all out and brought a purse along. I just can't wait for the Prom.

Procedures Change in . . .

Voting

When only 200 students out of 2,000 vote for an important Homecoming Queen Finalist election, administrators should know that something must be changed. It is ridiculous to vote during lunch for many reasons.

First of all, Student Congress does not have enough workers to run the voting in an organized manner. Second, students should not have to take five minutes out of their lunch class period.

Voting is something that takes only a short time and can be done in class while the teacher takes roll. One last point, what is the difference between taking a few minutes out of class for voting and taking a few minutes out of class for the student phone number directory?

Is He Really . . .

Perfect?

In high school, every teenager is looking for Mr. and Miss Right. We all have our own image of the "perfect mate."

Each of us searches and searches the entire school to find the person that is right for us. Sooner or later, with so many people to choose from, you find what you feel is a fabulous match.

Many times this true love affair lasts no longer than a week and you realize that the match wasn't perfect after all. You both have broken hearts, but in time, hearts mend, and you are looking for another Mr. or Miss Right.

When you enter high school, you quickly begin to notice the variety of dress.

The prep, fad and studious look remain, but punkers are now appearing.

Punkers intimidate many people, but underneath the leather and chains is an ordinary person.

Legislature Deals Golf a

Bogie

The flexible provisions included in House Bill 72 are amazing to me. It was created because people felt too much emphasis was placed on football.

What I find so incredible is that it seems the football players were the least affected. It seems as if Texas protected its pet sport, football, while organizations like the golf team, who have their competitions during school, were hurt severely.

The legislature dealt golf a real bogie.

You've got a bright future.
We'll do our part to help keep it that way.

Your generation will need as much electricity as is being used these days. Maybe more. We at Texas Electric are working to provide you with the electricity you'll need for college, your homes and your jobs.

In the past, we've used mostly natural gas and oil to make electricity. Today, we're making almost half of our electricity in plants built to use lignite coal. And, we're building a plant to make electricity using uranium fuel. By using these cheaper and more abundant fuels, we'll help keep your future looking bright.

Dress, Drive in Elegance

Eric Borton

ynthia McGill sings along with her favorite ong as it is played at Prom '85.

In early April, preparations for prom began. Girls rushed around trying to find a dress and a date, while the guys took their own sweet time. Due to the low receipts from the magazine sale, tickets were $35 per couple.

Rides to the prom ranged from the elegant limo to the ordinary, "Mom's car." With a price tag of $5, one could have his car valet parked, or for the budget-minded couple, a garage was available across the street for their parking ease.

On May 10, at the Americana Hotel in Fort Worth, the festivities began with an 8 p.m. dinner, followed at nine by three hours of dancing. Music varied to suit different tastes, including country, rock, pop, oldies and slow songs for close dancing.

While most people ate and danced, others were busy scanning the room to find the most gorgeous dress. Girls wore full-length to tea-length dresses usually accented with a wrist corsage. Tails with tie and cumberbund to match their date's dress color was what most of the guys wore.

Some prom-goers stayed to dance, while others took advantage of the beautiful Sundance Square, rode in a horse and buggy or went for a walk in the water gardens.

Midnight did not bring prom night to an end for many. To round off the evening, activities ranged from parties at the Hilton in Arlington to breakfast at 6 a.m.

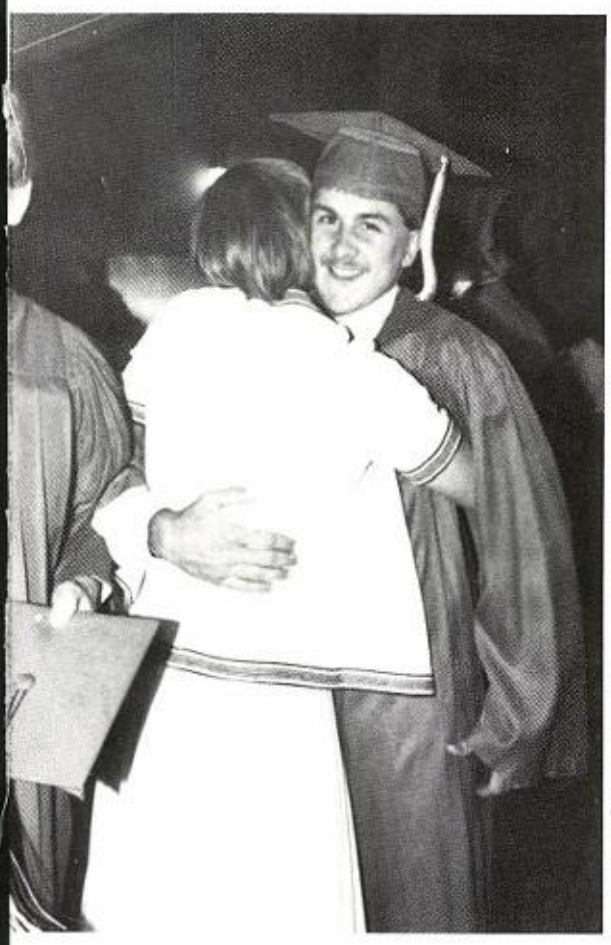
Hard Work Proves Worthwhile



Amy Brown

Graduation excitement overtakes David Soos as he hugs his English teacher, Evelyn Muelder.

Graduation . . . was it all worth it? For 12 years, the Class of 1985 worked toward this moment, an hour and 45 minutes of their lives.

The program listed 423 graduates, a smaller group than usual, probably due to stricter grade requirements levied by the state legislature.

For some students, the walk across the stage brought sheer relief. There had been so much doubt . . . fear of the F. For others, graduating was a certainty. There was never a doubt . . . only A's. Both groups, however, felt the same excitement.

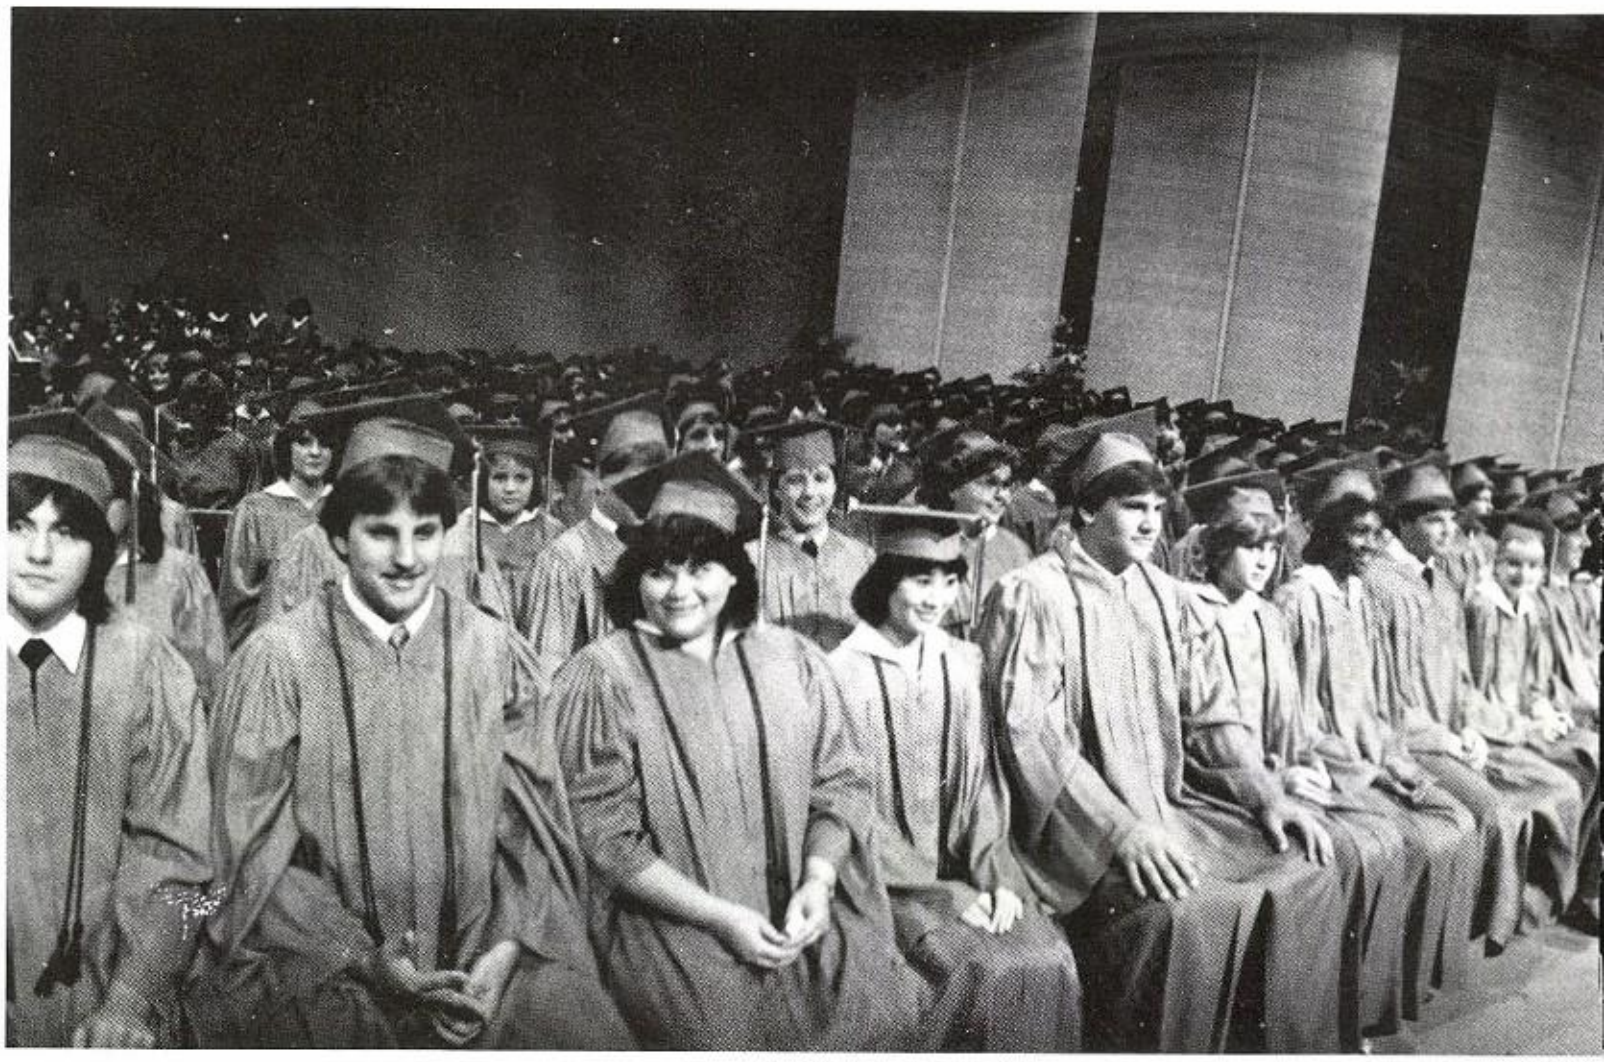
"I felt scared because I'd be leaving everything I knew — my school and my friends," said Jeff Johnson.

Kim Berube described conflicting feelings. "I had mixed emotions. I was real excited about graduating. I was sad because there were so many friends that I may never see again."

Another senior said graduation was slightly painful. "After they called my name, I got a crick in my neck. I had to sit funny to see everybody walk across the stage," said Robin Hadley.

The shaky knees, sweaty palms, and butterflies in the stomach were a small price to pay after 12 years of hard work.

"After all those years, nothing would have stopped me from walking across that stage. You'd better believe it was worth it!" said Gloria Hernandez.



By experimenting with the panoramic camera, Eric Borton takes an interesting shot of some of the honor grads.

Epidemic Invades Classroom

Sometime before spring break, students begin to get a little antsy. Even after a week's vacation, there is still something in the air; some call it "spring fever" or "senioritis."

We don't know why this affects us the way it does. Hands not writing, minds in space, giggle-attacks, easy tempers and sloppy clothes' styles are just a few of the symptoms of this disease. It hits all age groups but mostly teenagers. There is no real cure, only the last day of school or graduation can slow the effects of the disease.

The effects are sometimes drastic if this is not caught and stopped in time. Someone with this malfunction can fail a class (hands not writing), become an airhead (mind in space), get a bad citizenship grade (giggle-attacks), lose friends (easy tempers), and be on the "worst-dressed" list (sloppy clothes' styles).

To fight this disease and stop it, one must eat right, control emotions, iron clothes and, above all think, "Graduation!" Together, we can stop this disease from happening and make the right things in life really happen.

Varsity football player Gino Johnson hugs that megaphone to give the Junior Class an edge during class competition.

Adapting To Changes,

For Better or For Worse?

People everywhere tend to make mountains out of molehills. That was what most of the student body did when they heard about the new school rules.

Although the "No D" rule hit many students hard, others were inspired to study more in order to make passing grades. Junior John Cervantes said, "This year was one of the toughest years I have ever had. The new rule changes have forced me to study for longer periods of time each day." Some students took an easy class load so their grade point average would not suffer.

Even though the school curriculum was tougher, after we made it, we felt like we accomplished our goals successfully. If the classes were as easy as before, there would not have been a challenge involved.

"Most of us survived the "No D" rule, teachers and students survived fifty-five minutes of class, and school spirit wasn't hampered by shorter pep rallies," commented junior Marti Cherry.

The few, the proud, the dedicated chose to stick it out and now our time has come. We proved that after hours of hard work and dedication, we can do anything. We, the classes of '85, '86 and '87, handled all of the changes with pride and perfection.
